

ADVERBS OF MANNER

Rule	Adjective	Adverb
In most of the cases, add -ly .	frequent usual quick	frequently usually quickly
Ending in a -y after a consonant, change the -y to an -i and add -ly .	happy hungry lazy	happily hungrily lazily
Ending in -le , -able , or -ible , change the final -e to -y .	gentle preferable terrible	gently preferably terribly
Ending in -ic after a consonant, add -ally (with the exception of public → publicly).	drastic specific frantic	drastically specifically frantically
Ending in -ue , omit the final -e and add -ly .	due true	duly truly
Some adjectives do not change their form at all.	fast hard so high late	fast hard so high late

- Adverbs are words that give extra information about a verb, or another adverb.
- Adverbs of manner tell you how something is done or how someone performs an action.
- Adverbs can appear in different positions in a sentence. It depends on whether the adverb is acting to modify an adjective, another adverb, or a verb.